

Contributions in Black Studies

A Journal of African and Afro-American Studies

Volume 15 *Sudan's Predicament: Civil War,
Displacement, & Ecological Degradation*

Article 9

1997

Contributors

Follow this and additional works at: <http://scholarworks.umass.edu/cibs>

Recommended Citation

(1997) "Contributors," Contributions in Black Studies: Vol. 15 , Article 9.
Available at: <http://scholarworks.umass.edu/cibs/vol15/iss1/9>

This Back Matter is brought to you for free and open access by the Afro-American Studies at ScholarWorks@UMass Amherst. It has been accepted for inclusion in Contributions in Black Studies by an authorized editor of ScholarWorks@UMass Amherst. For more information, please contact scholarworks@library.umass.edu.

Contributors

Dan Connell is the founder of the Boston-based solidarity organization Grassroots International and the author of Against All Odds: A Chronicle of the Eritrean Revolution, Red Sea Press, 1993. He is currently writing a book on social and political movements in Eritrea, South Africa, Palestine, and Nicaragua for publication by Monthly Review Press.

Jok Madut Jok received his Ph.D. in Anthropology from UCLA in 1996, M.A. from the American University in Cairo, and B.A. from Alexandria University, Egypt. He is now Assistant Professor of African History at Loyola Marymount University, California. His research interests are in the history of medicine, war and social change, gender and reproductive health, and refugee health care. His recent publications include " Militarism, Gender and Reproductive Risk: The Case of Abortion in South Sudan," "Information Exchange in Disaster Zone: Interaction Between Relief Workers and Aid Recipients in South Sudan," and a book, Militarization, Gender and Reproductive Health in South Sudan, Edwin Mellen Press, 1998.

Girma Kebede received his Ph.D. and M.A. from Syracuse University and a B.A. from Addis Ababa University in Ethiopia. He is currently Associate Professor of Geography and International Relations at Mount Holyoke College, Massachusetts, where he teaches courses in ecology, population and food resources, and development problems and prospects in Africa. He has published several articles on food, development, and environmental issues in Africa, especially in Ethiopia. He is the author of The State and Development in Ethiopia, Humanities Press, 1992.

Mohamed Suliman, Ph.D., is director of the Institute for African Alternatives, London and is affiliated with the University of Khartoum. He has written extensively on issues of environmental impoverishment and resource conflict in Sudan in particular and Africa in general. He is an active contributor to the International Project on Violence and Conflicts Caused by Environmental Degradation and Peaceful Conflict Resolution.