Introduction

One of my earliest “literary” influences was the musical Cats. Yes.

Everyone has to own that initial moment of linguistic things snapping into place. I could tell you the snap happened as I sat in my 11th grade AP English class, awed by Tennyson’s “Ulysses” into suddenly hearing and seeing what poetry was up to. After all, “Ulysses” did do that for me. And that would probably be a much more appropriate anecdote with which to introduce a master’s thesis. But I’d be showboating, as it was show tunes that did the dirty work of getting me into this mess.

My father, a real working-class renaissance man, was a dilettante of musical theater. He had Cats on records (it was the early 80’s!), and he’d play it loudly while I would race and cartwheel and cavort, gracelessly choreographing and sounding my own tongue at what I would learn later to be Eliot’s poetry. My parents got a real bang out of their kid’s theatricality. Little did they know that internally I was committing sins of sense making! In trying to wrap my mind around the sounds those lyrics made, I was making my own, “new” sense of words whose connotative and denotative meanings I did not know—nor had I any business knowing, really, at the age of four:

Practical cats, dramatical cats Pragmatical cats, fanatical cats Oratorical cats, delphioracle cats Skeptical cats, dispeptical cats Romantical cats, pedantical cats Critical cats, parasitical cats Allegorical cats, metaphorical cats Statistical cats and mystical cats Political cats, hypocritical cats Clerical cats, hysterical cats Cynical cats, rabbinical cats!

These days I could tell you in fancy-speak what's in there that can and ought to grab the ear and imagination of a small child: anaphora, assonance, consonance, internal-slant-buried rhyme ...too true. However, it's an incomplete equation; I can't completely remove the Andrew Lloyd Webber (something I struggled to do as I got beat up in high school by the hard core poetry thugs). I can't say what would have happened if my parents had simply read me Old Possum's Book of Practical Cats, instead of subjecting me to A.L.W.'s tweaked up bastardization of it. I'm sure something would have registered— after all, I notice quite a few borrowings in my syntax and diction from my earliest books. Still, I maintain it was the emotional height achieved by the dramatic, jazzy, dynamic score and the imagination inherent in it, that turned me on: the music torqued the lyrics, made me make my own (non)sense of it. And I feel like I've been hearing a secret soundtrack behind language ever since then.

So what does a soundtrack do? For a movie, it sets the tone, ambiance— in more artistically intentional films it can even be said to do the work of an actor, via the composer's creativity and expert craft. So I bristle when, many a time a reader of my poetry responds: "Well, you're certainly having fun with the sound, but... (insert awkward and infinite void here)."

I bristle, but I understand. It's not as if we walk around singing at one another in order to communicate. We have music for things we can't say, right? Or so I flatter myself. And although I don't think that "fun" is the exclusive effect of my use of sound, I wouldn't dream of denying its importance to my writing. My poems laugh a lot. Sometimes funny haha, quite often funny huh. and now and then simply wheeeeeee! It's said that laughter is a sign of fear, a misunderstanding, a defense mechanism; I couldn't agree more. My almost incessant default state of finding a mirthful element in everything around me must, to some extent, come from an irreparable rift in communication between my mind and the world's mind. I often feel as though someone just kicked me off the merry-go-round, and I'm ever willy-nilly waiting for some Victorian gentleman to step out of the scenery and offer me his arm. Maybe he's my betrothed, or my maternal grandpa who I never met, my gay uncle, my best girlfriend, or my uncharacteristically faithful cat— it depends on the day. I think I dwell "a little to the left of the 20th century" (Miller), and my wordings are the breadcrumbs that let me navigate back and forth.

Then, again. The humor also comes into play when the exact opposite occurs: comfort, joy, locative bliss. There are times when I couldn't feel more a part of the world, more pivotal to the minutia of what's "happening" in a growing spiral beginning at the oxygen around my head and spinning out toward the most distant celestial landmark.

(One way or another, there's always swirling while I'm writing.)

Space. Spatial space. Not just the where, but the when and the why and the how of the shape we are in. I seek spaces everywhere, a peeping tom. I love that hour of the day when it's dark enough to see into people's domestic cubits of definition. But it's not the people I want to see. I want to voyeuristically learn how they finagle their chambers, how what houses them treats them back. I fashion ludicrous dioramas, prowl the aisles of dollhouse furniture stores, fantasize about and sometimes implement ridiculously impractical interior design schemes for self, friends, and family. I think that a page is certainly a space, but whether or not you write it down, a poem uses language to draft, erect, embellish, and designate an emotionally palpable space.

Last summer, I worked at Edith Wharton's summer home in the Berkshires as a tour guide of her house and gardens. I had to do a lot of reading and research on Wharton's once-provocative design philosophy, the influences that conducted the symphony of her aesthetic sensibilities indoors, outdoors, and in her prose. This was captivating work for me; ever since an undergraduate production of Tom Stoppard's Arcadia, I have kept one eye on landscape architecture and the way it echoes literature and fabricates imagination. After all, isn't sculpting the outdoors into a series of cultivated human living spaces the ultimate willing suspension of disbelief? I love the way you can dress up the outdoors to look like in, and the indoors to look like out. Like a stage set. Even after I "outgrew" A.L.W.'s Cats, I was always drawn to things of a theatrical nature. I performed and produced a lot of theater as an undergrad. Acting is one of those everyday miracles, like imagination. To attempt to inhabit a role with your voice, face, body, and all the metaphysic within is extremely scary and dangerous. Although I've never been a user, I suspect that to fully and utterly embody a role is a rush greater than heroine, and even more painful. An orgasm— there's another thing you can fake, like acting, or patio furniture serving as a "dining room."

But when an orgasm is right and true it is the essence of us. Just as some of the most interesting “faking” is done off stage, and is often anything but untrue. The way a throw pillow and an Austrian panel of the right hue can change a room from funereal to “jewel toned!”, the way we act a little differently with all the different people in our lives, the way you let the weather make or break your day. So, which do we prefer? Pretend relegated to the make-believe realm, or make-believe all around us? The money-shot is of the blurred boundary.

My writing tries to inhabit many spaces, often those spaces I remember/believe in without ever having seen. The only way to get there for me is to crash words and their nautilus shells of centuries’ worth of connotation up against one another as flint and steel, or even satin and sand, or cerulean and sad. In poetry, they all make a spark; the aural spark they make is part of the transportive sense memory the passage requires. One obsession of mine is the space of childhood, or, more specifically, the space it occupies on the hard-drive of our memory— the way that space is always with us, interfering lovingly in our adult ways. My friend’s nine year-old niece said the other day she couldn’t wait to be 13. I remember being nine and regretting that I could never be eight again. No joke.

I’ve always had an un/natural penchant for regression. Nowadays, maturity (#sigh#) dictates that I give up my quest to stop the looping of the years further and further away from the days when a roomy shrub was my house, when behind my mother’s dresser there was an entrance to a secret, better attic, when there was still the possibility that jumping from the third stair to the ground could absolutely result, with proper concentration and faith, in mid-air suspension. I am constantly told by what I see around me that those days and thoughts must never be again, that we only get one chance to inhabit them. I don't like the children of the moment because I'm jealous of them. At times, I don't even want kids of my own because my job will be to facilitate their imagination, while I'm still stubbornly mourning my own. But there is hope and therapy and even absolution in clashing and crashing together what I remember from being five with what I remember from a minute ago. In coordinating the sounds and supposed meaning of words the way I have, I transport myself and, I fervently hope, my reader to explore space that has been lost to us. Not just of childhood, but of That June Day, you know the one? Neither do I. Let's go.

Preface

Diary, mine will not be clever crisp at times one-legged, but braggadocio for a season.
Ultimately, untimely trodden down, gathering tome-pity from stiff neighbors and stray psalters.

Pages, prime and labyrinthine flutter in an offer, bite the place you put your ribband, donate their applause to your choice incantation, fated perfectly for such a shimmer of a winter morning.

Bound lies a penchant for reliquaries, arid, cut blood the trail in the dry leaves, below.

Sitting In a Basket With Pulleys Elaborate

Grimey elevated the babe hallelujah the newborn patch green, creatures, friends, Saracen walnut steerer– dryadical improvisation.

Gutter below for droppings, mousse the canopy and chomp the rope: shells fall, and twigs, tin trinkets.
These heights, delight such proportions, bore my swaddled form hither.

Further, to fulfill this two-sided sun void, candy grows and long-necked mammals of the field's coast munch and pull at the taffy raffia fruit, herein and hemp-like, stiff with sugar, sugar cages, entice!

Tyranny of Three. Casket, cup and elevation, the bedtime down the block got away.
Meadow, steeple, schoolhouse and safely stowed my, in a sturdy convertible walnut.

Patron Saint Ropes delay the snapping jaws, depths, clack of teeth and bark claws sharpened on the smell of baby candy.

Necromatailor

God is us, sonny!
Sew, sew soft pet forever an acclamatory sentence is rough!!!!!!

Sew, sew to stay around, to sing a la luna indefinite, say halloo night, night, night ears in a box, ready to know singing, eyes googly, what with some glue you no-sew royal, violent consent through the chink in the wall sip the scuppernong vormally verboten to apprentices, a long straw enough of ears boxed, strata plumbed and sounds like closing time. Know that a single disgrunt could unman this mise en scene.

Five High and Flaming Insincere

What's it with the cumulative, you
lookit and go tell it

with a locket so cinched?
And wretched you could've lit your own briquette, hail.

If this is the middle layer, and truly few are tertiary sweet we ought to have formed a mindful agent of my sparky ancient slats.

Slow-mo for me, honeymoon.
Was the other of your phases the new last?
Under my covers when he was when?
Page baby break—shuck that headache, rope prepped on my sanctum's settee.

Penny for your bloody but ruffled vendetta, the bad land's echo each fried, cut, out loud woe.
The best special for today when you drop the cry
I can hand it over with a fat red streak we'd forgot.

The Age of Lights

Like tonight an era make me see into my own limber chamber, younger, I view my reason my then countenances with cool, Jane Austentine collection.

As spans, whirling still compartments:
rest, an oestrus baroque beat a glowing sepia deerpath.

Remember, light.

The library hums fluorescent, with air conditioned, in the summer vacation.
Fire died, still descry stairwards.
Is clouds' whirl making the yellow leaves tweedle breezy or the sun bead through?

My vintage ocean, making light do older things.

Light of my gentle future wants, urge the source.
Abscond your own lambent tinge and deign lowery onto eyes I'd rather see with good lustre.

Illumine, queue and taste like you did then, and I can then let this, one time, be enraptured.

Gentleman Caller Over Yonder

Blow by, he skulked the shore trying on the speaking we having done with the excuse of translation, he sauntered like a suit, in the name of the gesture, the posture,
and the gesticulation he cruised us, dandy, chuft, just warming up or was this immemorial jeremiad thunder stroke?

Either or the sand rubbed the suit off.
Defrocked and rolled and battered fell he dumb, tongues all agog, and bumped on the lowest niveaux de langue, under the paisley speech of scuttle or bust, doomed to signify a hex from the word's real helm.

Jet Set NJ Receptacle

My Grandfather said,
of being a baker, post WWII: Those rivulets were the warring, knotting up my stakes and limbs.
It's an endeavor to you we one, a terrible gas, a trigger trick to chasten the migrant interior and yellowing lining of this shtick.satchel, all stratagem aside the shore, he insists: It would be prime if you'd allow Atlantis her sinking, way down derry, they object to her skin-so-nouveau, her porous
fib.

Bedcheck

The Moorish wish for a tooth trade can't besquelched you, little one, unleavened envelope, behold,
a slip of fortune feather-bound under your rest.

Memory is not your doughy toy—Are you having a good time yet?
With the dough and the hiccuping drain?

Girls, have you the number of the dragoon that did this to you?
Have you properly labeled Gentility's Avenger in the face? The lower circles couple it as a croquet mallet.

It can be a little double helper to you, advance to the furthermore status unbecoming to a filly.

One o's, two o's, three o's well that ends with the open eyelid should skip this catalogue of detained dreams, cupless and crawling, that a folded gaze from sundown to star should hum at you, and miss you in its secure hem

that the content's cradle might be capsized, scandal ebb forward to the counter's edge—the floor, open mouthed and wayside the powdered sugar sheets, menthol to the touch, mussed just so.

Todd and Margot Go Abroad

Nuptials incensed with blood blue, this duo makes a go in the chilly-willy, wettest clime.

Odd fishy wisdom is Todd's claim.
He scoots her side to side, antagonizing her secret gills in most windless nooks.
Margot, our girl for gathering, rummaging the foliage with a pallet solely wont of tapenade, only olives' taste discard the brine in this current wended sand.

All sealegs and homesick, they cut figure-eights on the leeward face, shangriloops to keep warm, the Todd and Margot despite them.

A Lady Does Garden Too

Do abide by when emulating this renaissance:

1. Size up the various monochromy as given verdure– don't distract your viewing with just any array of bon-vivant, multi-colored hog bloom.
2. Every quad, like an empty letter could use of stone, local stone if possible, in all but cleavage untouched by sweeping and vegetative snags.
3. Someone ought to've died in this pool of circle, gurgle as it may, and tumble out the eye of the rock's face in this way.
4. Show them off balance by perspective, the hardscape whumped from a distance underneath, so that in a glass cat, lightly, espy one of several scenic paths.

This, is a grass green envelope, folded would be sent all of our way, a drink, parterre, a drink.

Familia, Familia

Why so, so many dark-haired beauties from one pair jangled by, but in their quibbling, braying tots did get chided a chorale so low it furthered an exit for the middle one away, nothing stemming, one unsung willow of own tenebrous willing to to work it , always on raising upwards of her sisters' many sagas' ages one stunt, took a peek behind a chair, saw no reason to right at home, leave off intervening two half-branches.

The withered bark makes good medicine, if the season struggles to wrap mind and tongue up in the same tree heart, pulse their way down to earthward to where the herbs are born too early in this time of particular year.

Slayerino

Endow the three of your cubs with such an excalibur you bumbled across, boy. Wrend some ore either into a pylon or coop clog, but crows each know it was a chance domestication.

Your circus, indiscreet and fenced so small so mammals had to hermit away the days, hubris less, the pachyderms each shed a flood of cells and tears, even the wax wolf has no maw full of sackcloth and ash even to pile one paw atop another.

Here, tent, and bobs and banneret entrench the passing moppets, sticky fingered and with soppen every thing they empathy is curify, counterpoised on either glassy eyed, see a bit of haint with each tenant, each staid their drubbing a given.

The Hit Place

Drowning the slap of water on your ankle in claim, one foot on shore, denying the mute slam of a dead, concrete face against your permeable own.

Felled, the axis slides a lullaby and the wet wraps up the grains, which tinkled in your tiny ear.

Landscape Architecture

Twine undid, dyed a blue cornflower knuckle-bob and the tire swayed mid-aired.

Sea wee sick one ready: pell mell off the rubber center 1, 2, 3 to the bowling green beyond, bottoms out in a brook, scaled to the suburbs and looking to gurgle bantam secrets to the wee.

The way withal down to stream riddles unwrap in the grass, lie like gems and flawed her downward arms peddling into the flume.

When we were little,
the demesne, from gabion to turret-bound, from the hunt to the bank, is a park's worth of sinuated terra firma.
Fraught with flora,
fauna becomes her.

For Giambattista Basile's The Goose

I. Lilla and Lolla.

Sleep it in did you that shat gilded oh, my little beaky on a sheet all to the winds they swell, puffy fowl aggrandize the two dizzies go to, go to— rags, riches, dame, duo numbered dumb by pernicious tweaking next door, too eyesies inside the shuttered maw see the bellies circumbendibus gullet keep on the guggle vint-a-vagaries, all knowing no better than to stuff the mattress with darling it.

II. Vasla, Perna, Pasca

See! Gaggle the proud poofy squad of matrons all amuck the coop of Lilla, Lolla, beakishly fresh in high minting season:
thou shalt not pride of thy shite, mesdames butt shew gander glittering and have at you one last sacred feather fight whumping down the unction, only to wed a Lolla to a viceroy most notable in these parts for his— unstuck— from his private beaky most belligerent and telling.

Plate of Ivory

Her white tassels are ribs fastened wiles her two braids laid like track.

And he, he chugs along tail coat dithering smartly, the grasp of undergrowth sallied out from underfoot by the serpentine lay, his fob knocks in rhythm metal rods verging parallel, adorned in earthen garniture, the cumulus of clicks and clackery having wrested the babe away.

It pictures, such a doom on a blue day, peaks shouted to them from on high.

They, in white pursuit in the v of the gods, tagging onwards make a hinge of her hand itself, snapped the little ankle off steaming in her pale glove, lagging in rose light, the light hot common lilac reeking of vanquish.
The whistle thither signals their wounded lace to lick itself.

Some Times Real Nordic

A blue box forced to hold yellow gelatin, but one the light can still scarify; still, the temperature of this compartment need be specific, chill and candlelit.without in order to pitch it all up there, prism.
Lapping up latitudes towards the junipers, getting so that fish are it.

Snow fills the bedroom like salt, a fish in one window, out the other a naked mammel or two, warm, quiet in the arctic shiver. It's an elevated box, aboved and perched below the tree line peak. Neither night, nor day, could you really pin it to—and no one has to job, so nothing but that vaccuum snow sound makes will wake you at the right time real, the way the ice, cloven all over, and the dirty stars in their trade gives a worry-not nordic glow.

Deus Ex Machina Deplumed

Dun, behind the arrow struck was a ground pallor designed to digest a whole, suffering and persecuted spiral.

For a set scene, a dandy and a damsel quell the floral name, whose trajectory paled and halted in the beams over high headed gentry and foiled an awed dove—it interrupted its duet.

Bird, become a lick of paint that we might pretend this candescent chord not sluiced alive with a lavish nomenclate, so for top billing to dwindle to a heretic technical error.

Instead, the players' stones cast the flora aural vow and the avian accord was struck.

A resulting ringlet dance met the plebeian gasp— here was poltergeist holotype and its avenger now unwingful, coiling to their rest. They sighed, Sleep on your gift and come a redolent spring and soaring silence will under your tongue be granted.

Of the Many Codices

I have a favorite then an empty egg now we know no lists other loving girls, boys, in-betweens, many laments brother other than, the eggs each shapely, love darkly coated with sap, amber the better insulator, keep up the going rates higher than away from what you spent reckless young life the elements, warned and of warmest cardinal hue to another the spread word told me for he did write to fill with time better than to cross than undoing all family ties taut brother no good, for you can take a new shape contorted from the sinuous protein of the tree's skin to warm each of us as isolated treasure, when my little nest needs stay away, spendthrift, from not inoculated by poison berries no one wrathful, told us a tale migrating from one page to another and finally it was fleeing time.

For the Limb Boy

With oatmeal splendiferous thrift collar, knickerbockers both you are cordoned by a twig network, tiny and squared to frame you, winter spits out a deathrattle daring your ascension.
Loamy ankles will quake for your cables, spotted, flecked with the tamed wood.

Dark colic, unbound to the evening air with two olive-like wounds, projectile bituminous twilight 'twixt embracing branches and buds the thumbsize of a six year old-fist, your webbed wool paw in a youthful alm, a March evening eats the eighteenth century you're feeding it.

Nutkin Doesn't Nix the Cola

Truth be told by an untamed furlflop, the hares burning in their bell carol are just a cracked lot.

Hoppity squatters look March a gifty egg in the eye but nutsense is pure, rummaging nepenthe.

He cants "it's carbonated credibility!" not all flop and gnashers like those fuzzy fuckloaves of American Easter.

Roger, I'm not at all sold on the yoke of seasonal employment.

Nutkin, wilco, imbibe, poptop, pontificate, crack, slurp.

Bristle in a bottle, Nutkin's bubbles don't canard so da re mi jitter in like a lamb, and condescend the lopy, my tail can out-aluminum them all from my slapdash hammock, my scampy perch on can-dreg mountain.

Half Life Illuminata

Revel in the binding, thread fingers, together, and with kisses think we you had it, too, good.

Verily, he wasn't on the giving end, both burning for her take, her locks purloined and singe her turn of phrase, an elegy in the light of so spent, early girl, what he's to intend by his inheritance isn't your cake, and day.

How you were burned, have us austerely see it elsewise, live warm love, a possible life, satins all asunder, whelmed into a new dell with chimes sounded too true.

We, true, pressing madam keep the lie aloft for all the someday wishing-well bredes, dingy snipes and stay-at-homes—don't you worry about your true, we'll have them up and down the aisle, steeple-chasing, knowing can never be allowed, mired hearthside.

Dear (Private),

I didn't tinker with you; your pistou was all I had to live for.

What did my minnows have to do, what say had they in your demise?

You say my refracting your warm arm arc cooked your bowed book. Them that's not shall be, Cowboy, and nota bene:

It weren't for my diving in your sea green hollows, little gill packets would have maimed you itinerant by now.

It weren't for my anonymous exhibit, plucky historifics would have rocked you hard on your luck.

Ok, ok, but caught on holiday with your paining ankles, it didn't seem fair to tame the Sabbath to my cooing. What sum are we flying out on? Is this what you've always wanted, or what? Dealt too low a cocktail to re-calibrate his roan, the lad sipped and idly, he ripped the tails off my petticoat, just to feel the starch fret.

It weren't for my tile cracking beneath your black and blue, an alms plate, bellowing your bequest to a stale enamorata would have been your only carpetbag.

Right?
Right always,
Luv.

Singing at the North Sea

-after Bethan Huws' video

Shirred water below cirrus serene sea cleft into seven women layer drest bright among all the natural undulation. Vocally, they canal into a squiggle, the treble level imbricating their formation of seven odd women calling home arisis, even women calling home thesis from the sea, facing, gray and white headdresses wrapt but mussed all the stops gleaming but not at all once all stopt the second's breath looks like death for a moment, a rest.

Keen in all cardinal directions, lined up as a structure molecular they remind us they're past their prime bodies jib against the tidal tug, home is ready made within their capacious aprons, between the bulkheads of fabric quaintly starched, vibrating along with the stitches they voice.

Mock Yard Work

The hedge waves green sleeves, gauzed with god juice so they silver all over.
I'm jazzed about these overtures. I covet a cat named one day: Bruno, Yaddo, Uterus Judas, Hedgewump, Jerky Judo, Egon, B reezy, Xesss.

Blossoms hurl in the weave, the hurl of veridescent dots.
They brocade my trousseau of new branches for the sake of frog clasps anchoring a beeswax blank book to a loblolly.

Feline wroughts a spey rod, and bone folders sweat it out, bookwise, and earn their hoes.
In spring, the miscellany of tired iron shed pets.

His Holy Week

Of a Monday, it was mini-mentioned that in my garret strewn with dead thread moons shedding their hides come here to cough, and die—it's all true.

Of a Tuesday and it's go-time and you crossed to the other bank, to pick a pocket, rob a limb, seek to drill a hole double square, scoff at the heart-peg, and call it a night.

Of a Wednesday, off the charts figures soared, a windlass whispered the ingredients, but in the unchurned sunbeam of the moment the tenants went to seed and left layered intentions in the lonely leaves beneath.

Of a Thursday I insisted I was of a mind to call you my sole beau, a novena cut down in its prime prophesied a gleaming scribble too late—songs spelled out in pebbles never lie, they say.

Of a Friday I take in the cool spot of unstrained sun.
Through a string window I behold it alone—it's an indoors kind of day, watching you tussle the hair of the masses, I sever those strands inside out and rust the sill with salivation for the weekend-like fun of others.

Cycle Detrimental With an Ever Bad Wheel

Awkward Autumn Time

the other boy abandoning his seesaw end too early on.

Cull a Bounty

from an old-ashes field, and ransacked.
The leaves are at half-bright, though you blot, do not meddle with these downwards.

Array of Dried Kitsch

(a silly ear, an awkwardly retired stalk) the still-born harvest festooned between the body parts of porch. Pilloried mischief in a pum'kin-like smile. To make one, mix one quarter lunar solemnity with a bit of the dark end of a funnel.

The Narrow End

'Vember lurks in the barren fridge and space of heatless hallway, unused friends crawl under the mud to hide from the haunt.

Invite In a Rotty Truth

besides, to commune with those would invite a truth soon to be frozen, maybe skated over, or shunned as bad snow, and ever other sided veil, in the next month's life.

Nature Has Stopped

up in her ears and her sounds, the remainder, which is windchimes, premier their charms against a black colored quiet; they rankle with their desultory plink.

Daylight Reduces to a Pallid Blue square of light, afternoon's highest muster, the least you allow things to lumber in the encroaching corners.

A Caw Caw's Smile

is my unseason's paralyze, a trick unpredictable and such a sham treat.
Here, on the crown of its curve, the year skidded akimbo to a stop.

Q.E.D.

See here violence, parlance bemused and overdosed with her cracked eggshells wanting only beaks to discern footnotes for you, bidden in an ungainly fashion at the gala say can they be hoofed with your poison flag furling into her merry valve?

Should I have had said shun that quiet-seeming, snowy centerpiece for the decorative sham she will be in lieu, forever, naming the same pained, ordered chablis?

A new degenerative, every one, sees my stick turned social lashing, turned fencepost—a tweaked landmark you lay too hands upon.

Adam's Little Dizzy

Could an orchard invite a more reticent moniker, he'd have a rusting gala on his hands and our party in recline had been a bust but for a weaving stratagem seaming our sullied apples cuddling, two.

In that small minute others' shouts like accessories became moot appendages, our daily picture snapped, all cerulean and branched, sun broken crimson skin.

The soil bent the lens in calling the photo op into the earth, it did twist, with pleasure the rows of fruit into an end, pointed sunward.

Merger of a Different Nature

Someday we and me could come to different types glowing tips, might be overwhelming co-uniting, lit and bleating, to let go of the secondary expletive, maybe we'd render two moot.

Maybe there'd be nil reconciliation, wine-water; we'd go ahead admit impediments!

Sure what those are.
And don't they just glorify what we're doing here.

Advocates Close

skull duggery a bit I'll give you what for that's for sour stomach and guntongue and that's for happy christmas wishes
I already told, it's done and drained of savory,

what for an if took to bashing?
we wouldn't swing Heyday the Blade doorwards at the unforgivingly early setting

glory lady be we cheer chop chop in a finger slap twiddling for butter, lacy butter and Greyfriar's sacred, insomnolent and sotto voce chilly lo!

Voyager Jehoshaphat

On its edge there was a wild only kind of aquawall, wavering with the thrust, lunge, and perry of the middle stoker.

There, I fought my fin rot all on my enzyme, and be damned the waiting for all womankind.

If that flailing mass had had a head to tug me morass via its own cut in the crystal blue clover, that is to say we could've stayed lane babies we may have had a lashed spurt.

Sign of the Hand

Panes abound, square low up your grains and may sky's electric singe bring us all to an acute hinging bow.

Along the canal, go under tartan canopies for you, drip the heavy down the flat empty sheet, again morph the grain melting into something, old friend, you've through and through.

Board sold, pelting rain ache and chasm took to the banks, belted round town, and ended in the alms and ales of St. Jacobstraat.

Nuptial Hour

I. Procreate

Head over a hot stove in heels it takes a gallant shove to show her what it was she wanted more. In the bleating mixer's vibe, of a betty and a store brand bairn, we heard her wails.

II. Fix

For a sickle-leveled palsy, dash the pestle against a dab of buff nay: float till set and it can see straight.
Only employ the small salt for mending and until upended, spare the tines.

III. Take

Immediately served, both spoiled store hermetically separate upon the lid-light crust, a golden edge dare be alone, underdone.

Godmother, Godmother

How does your homemade dough, perennial garden in a river-side, make an annual present to keep me safe?

And all this letting of blood his stories sieved, scents, and hollyhocks petal fret-naught showed to charm a couple, girls all little and fire cozy style, cold springtime night nigh.

A nimble minute's stitch had our ever-tasting minutes even in the hot womb of creatures, many comforts, a hot cuppa, will whipple a quilt around your middle trunk for awhile.
Let the gate creak to an acute moment, in which we praise your deeming and knarled wishes gained.

Catechesis

Augustine drained the space between the boughs and muttered to make a bundle, of turquoise,
ablaze and empty loaves.

Those grains wanting their own say in vibrations decided on a sullen fawn but an aqua baldachin anyway, in sea weaving above us they lined up to spell.

Fleance

We sashayed down the plank, we made some knobby headway in our getting to know you nots—

All the hims were wearing too thick makeup you couldn't tell he from the spackled willy, his dangly jeweled mast made me shiver, this I knew from backstage sopping.

When asking etiquette calls, include a lace cuff on the cheek, always be plain with your wig you're wearing—it is the soiree's predictor.
Direct the digging that a pearly capsule you find under the tunnel of manacled can't.

This ball. The men are all covert, trying one another's swirly mark to stir a wider gig, and when the sugar surfaced in the playing cards such a visage curly rused, one couldn't part rouge pots and the table patter flourished lisp-like, alive oh.

Chancy Plans Indeterminate: An Early Study

The 24th year reflected, appeared a dry stone, dirty and not to be wrung, not too tasty, and you try, squeeze– go ahead such suck.

To hurdle the snag is to dissolve it with a higher, harder nature, call ahead, if able pay, do, pay, if not pray that

The damage won't tarnish seven pieces, for seven years.
For three more tries:
amend, saddle- up, and patch, are the stains struck forward, into the prize?

Resolve is a verdant cache, a stick of sweet green, a sunny interaction with a seed.
Witchies make it effloresce, Hilltops hide it, insects stay away and you you pretty, think you deserve a sprig.

Eat you, drink you hope to find it in your cake. Promise with the vow unbound, broken circuit, broken tooth, a bride unspent, chased by a bee, and escorted to an unsafe place.

Lucky is shelter, tunnel and trope.
The lot is neither here, there.
There is no trophy in a mirror that you claw, clasp.
Peel of apple over shoulder, scratch at the ineffable dandy gazing you down, blush.

Ichthyosity for Two

We appeared sidewinded once, just for your pigment to perforate, skipping stone style, my quaint lane, weeping lined.

Enough of the olive oh, green of life say—has had its shady way with me, under tresses of tree such as conjugated me and you.

Your unintentional tendrils myrrh soaked, stretched a phenolic rope of scented scars across the acid muscle
I daily crook in your honor.

Nock not your sculpted fishes, alive, oh, into that anhydrous other globe. Let me aide your school-less contralto stroke, brush by, and we'll inhabit this whole little pool.

Drive, and Design dark and listening tunnel, don't tell us what to align into this moist bitter night dunces all travel chattel ish by day only after-hours can asphalt say its piece, by the urban nocturnal jewelry sanctuary sounds, like us, a throny lorry to man about the town style ish lying all in the while, lanthorns by swift and seismic teeter, one and road one animate, momentus pilot.

Team Ada

Ada zooms a direct dot, her own ink puddle edged with red along its laces with a brittle sauce.
It's the berries, she tells herself, to mend the aching slice she caused.

She would case her treads, in order to unmuddy your distracting oriental.
Her dainty smock-bottom triggers the cradle's starboard bow to a degree of needy outcry.

This couture can wend a hostage the desperate cherry prize—her meow is premium bounty hunter rummy money.

If the braggarts opened up the door, she'd puddle through, doing everything she likes the way in which she likes it saying bitter gray need.

Meditation In Fresh Air

Scuttle must you, new trick.
Your chatter has ground the foundation underfoot.

Our secret keeper sends his last reminder, smoking a tender trill, you and I some time, sleepy-eyed, were re-gifted under this guise—an arched spray of fountain.

Amidst this volta, it's hard.
Discern the degrees of topography from the swirling sub rosa.
On the verge toddle to a peer, edge, age, and settle gently down to the phenomenon of chilly living soil.

I'll change the season and switch off your alarm; seed your tactics, slow your breath, and we'll see what is your kind of ornament.

Jet Plane Puck

This was his omega striation.
She, a tubby, can middling appendage a pretty face make?
Alpha, desperado blighter don't label me tonight's fakirenough of you're ready?
Aim, if your Friday night cake can plug up a know-it-all, well, question not the dribble, all-star gauzy calling of your mother country.

Permanent

Those who are brought peeled things by bronzey gods have curls, dammit.

There is a flip, a slipped tendril, a growl: an empty eye in me. A prickle straight hatred of you all Helens all.

This is this line:

My lower lip brushes the steel of it, looking in your window and eyeing up your high feast, haunches spring loaded for my surprise curl gnawing rapture.

Sunderland Sally

She sells her skirts as a tight space for mice.

Under there, seared paw prints spell a perambulated ascension to her lethal, passive-seeming lynchpin.

Sally shrouds her hair like gauze around her lower malkin visage.
To start she opens her lunes upon a desperate Johnsonette;
her seeing darts vivisect.
She flays the peel away and sinks her cusped smile into whosever's layers.
The girls know no bed, no better than to be waked and pinned in this adumbrated wayside;
their bleating floats up the dank country air.

Requisite

If I asked you to, sing your helix into my neck crook; you could have your posy become my new and teasy relic—

When did I last sing that a trifecta of your little kisses could have drifted your lazy ticket my way?
From a boy odalisque in a crib of reeds, you could have sidled in the trickling secret, you might tiptoe, my dove still betimes,

be known to knock anon around the tiny heart rock where we meet.

Anise Hyssop Rides of Her Life

She took her cheeky elsewhere, out of doors, the cold pot begging for a warm, oh, they'll take you taskwise with your framed layers your calibrated friendship deflectors.
Someone fed you to a fan, Sister—the unapologetic oscillations did you no favors.

Please call uncle, that's if if your Doric columns don't sock em you can nurse em on your snarky dugs.

Oubliettho

I am a ho-ho's ouvre kneels in the passenger well of a sedan mirage.

Paving, the peds gingerly drop scurrilous, flay my lacy piece into midweek pops.

Give the day a skinny ass!
Barter your blues for a bonbon, take you to a damp sofa who burps shreds of your shoddy fabric.

Then you degenerate to desdemonian, leaving to me to keen your hedges, gnash the banks of your booby trap ensemble, and salute the cleverly placed salt moat.

Ding to the finish line, beeping for laurels, this was a sun-
shiny day, alright?
Not I'd know.
