Slaving Paths: Rebuilding and Rethinking the Atlantic Worlds
American Historical Association Meeting
San Diego, January 7 to 10, 2010.

A multi-session workshop entitled "Slaving Paths: Rebuilding and Rethinking the Atlantic Worlds" will be held in January 2010 at the American Historical Association Meeting in San Diego. This workshop will be a great opportunity to discuss comparative aspects of slavery and the slave trade in the Atlantic world (North, South, anglophone, lusophone, francophone, etc). The panels, mixing scholars working on Africa, the Americas and Europe, will follow the pre-circulated format; the papers will be available for download in December at the AHA website. Panel themes include: (1) North and South: comparative perspectives on slavery and abolition in Brazil and the United States; (2) Enslaved Africans and Commodities During the Era of the Trans-Atlantic Slave Trade; (3) Atlantic Images: Representations of Slavery and Enslaved Africans; (4) Mirages of Freedom in Atlantic Post-Slave Societies; (5) Slavery, Migration and Resistance: Atlantic Perspectives and Interactions; (6) The Root: Redrawing the Boundaries of Freedom; (7) Enslaved Africans and Creoles: Reassessing Identities and Interactions; (8) Gender, Family and Race in the British and French Caribbean.
