

Figure 3.13. Black substrate of a mudflat. The lighter colored surface contains some oxygen, while the black layer is anoxic and contains high levels of hydrogen sulfide.