

Collaborative Outreach:
How to Fit the Library into the Schedules of Over-Scheduled Students

Choose Your Own Adventure

Option 1

List a few potential candidates for collaboration on your campus (academic departments, offices, student groups). Or, share a success story!

Need inspiration?

- Which departments have a mission that overlaps with yours?
- With whom have you worked with already?

Option 2

List a few events on your campus that are prime targets for collaborative outreach. Or, share a success story!

Need inspiration?

- Which events are aimed at a demographic that you're trying to reach?
- Which events could conceivably involve the use of library resources and support?

Option 3

Already have something in mind? What next steps might you take to make it happen?

Need inspiration?

- To establish a connection with someone, invite them to coffee!
- To support an event, try to enlist another librarian, in case the possibility becomes a reality.

Questions? Get in touch!

Carrie Macfarlane, Director of Research & Instruction, cmacfarl@middlebury.edu; Amy Frazier, Film & Media Librarian, aifrazier@middlebury.edu; Mary Ellen Bertolini, Director of the Writing Center, mbertoli@middlebury.edu; Jerrica Davis, Peer Writing Tutor