

a

b

Figure 8.11. In the 1930s, extensive ditching of tidal wetlands in the Northeast was done by a civilian workforce in a government-sponsored back-to-work program: (a) workers digging tidal ditches and (b) grid-ditched marsh lined with peat blocks. (Connecticut Department of Environmental Protection)