Cold within the Soul

Mónica González

Follow this and additional works at: http://scholarworks.umass.edu/lov

Recommended Citation
Available at: http://scholarworks.umass.edu/lov/vol3/iss2/4

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the ScholarWorks@UMass Amherst at ScholarWorks@UMass Amherst. It has been accepted for inclusion in Landscapes of Violence by an authorized editor of ScholarWorks@UMass Amherst. For more information, please contact scholarworks@library.umass.edu.
Cold within the Soul

Abstract
On August 1st 2013 Julia Alonso and Brenda Rangel blocked Bucareli avenue, near Mexico City’s downtown. This is the story of two families looking for their missing relatives.

Keywords
Mexico, collective memory, collective action, testimony, violence, social movement

Creative Commons License
This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 License.

Author Biography
Mónica González received her BA in Communications from the Faculty of Political and Social Sciences at the National Autonomous University of Mexico (UNAM). Since 1999 she has been a photographer for the Agencia Mexicana de Noticias (NOTIMEX), El Economista, Diario El Centro, and currently she works for the newspaper Milenio. She won the National Journalist Award in 2013 and today she focuses her dreams, time and sight to give room for more voices and stories within her online documentary: “Geografía del Dolor” (Geography of Pain).
Absence is something nobody can get used to, especially when it’s the absence of someone you love.

On August 1st 2013 Julia Alonso and Brenda Rangel blocked Bucareli avenue, near Mexico City's downtown. This is the story of two families looking for their missing relatives.

Direction & Photography
Mónica González