mOthertongue
mOthertongue

A Multilingual Journal of the Arts

Sponsored by the Department of Comparative Literature at the University of Massachusetts,
The University of Massachusetts Arts Council, and the Student Affairs Cultural Enrichment Fund.

Volume VI Number 1
Spring 1999
Editors
Aaron C. Barrell
Danielle Bonicci
Joshua Clarke
Kenan Gündüz
Hillary Wonderlick

Founded in 1994

mOtherTongue is published each Spring by undergraduates at UMass Amherst.

The editors consider submissions from undergraduate and graduate students from any of the Five Colleges all year long. Please submit your work in your native tongue, accompanied by an English translation. Manuscripts and artwork may be sent to mOtherTongue, 303 South College, Department of Comparative Literature, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01002. Please send an address, telephone number or email for return of manuscript, or our reply.

The Editors of mOtherTongue would like to thank the following people for their help and support: William Moebius, Edwin Gentzler, Sarah Lenox, David Lenson, Elizabeth Petroff, Alice Bishko and the Comparative Literature Faculty at UMass.
A very special thank you to Linda Papiro, Wayne Cournoyer in publishing and Tom Stolarski in purchasing. Without the patience and time they gave to mOtherTongue, this issue would not have been possible.
The Umass Arts Council and the Student Affairs Cultural Enrichment Fund.
And finally, past editors of mOtherTongue for setting such high standards for the journal.

Contents Copyright © 1999 mOtherTongue journal.
No part of this magazine may be used or reproduced in any manner or by any means—with the exception of copying in accordance with Sections 107 and 108 of the US Copyright Law—without written permission. The ideas and opinions expressed in this publication do not necessarily reflect the views of the mOtherTongue staff.

photo on page one courtesy of Kenan Gündüz
Contents

Lilian P.W. Feitosa
Outono (Autumn/Fall) 2

As minhas palavras (My Own Words) 4

Ina Porras
Al Bosque en invierno (To the Forest in Winter) 6

Ivan Teodorovic
Croatian Aphorism 8

Ina Porras
Amor de Macho (Male Love) 10

Katherine Roback
Schlafen (Lullaby) 12

Klebert Bezerra Feitosa
Reflections 13

Lilian P.W. Feitosa
inintitulado (untitled) 14

Lylian Y. Bourgois
L’Immortel (Immortal) 16
Ivan Teodorovic
Croatian Aphorism

Klebert Bezerra Feitosa
Untitled Photograph

Ina Porras
Círculos y Esquinas (Circles and Corners)

Klebert Bezerra Feitosa
Untitled Photograph

Alfonso Ferreras
Una Dama se Congela sobre Ruedas (A Lady Freezing Upon Wheels)

Maya B. Castellon
Identidad (Identity)

Klebert Bezerra Feitosa
Untitled Photograph

Yehudit B. Heller
Patience

End of A Visit

About our Contributors
“Poetry is what is lost in translation.”

Robert Frost
Outono

Lilian P.W. Feitosa

outro tom no ar ouro todo o sol motou o tom do ar?
ou o outono só?
outro tonto nó ouve tudo noutro tom tom sem dó:
o tom do sol
de outono
Fall

another allure in the air flaring all the sun can you feel the faint air?
or the fall alone?
another faltering bass listens all in a falsetto tone a flawed one:
    the flat sun
    of fall

Autumn

Another hue in the air aureate all the sun have you asked about the air’s tone?
or autumn’s alone?
another awful humming audibly in another tone not an auspicious one:
    the tone of the sun
    of autumn
As minhas palavras
_Lilian P.W. Feitosa_

Estou sentindo tanta saudade das minhas próprias palavras...
Só ouço ecos dentro do meu próprio crânio Preciso do papel para dar-lhes vida.
Viver. É o que as palavras que se agitam no profundo do meu inconsciente querem.
Liberdade. Pra brincar, correr, voar (ou simplesmente falar) São borboletas, libélulas, pássaros engaiolados desejando a liberdade, sonhando com novas possibilidades – que espiam lá do fundo do coração pelas frestas que às vezes se abrem – nos raros momentos em que me encontro com serenidade suficiente pra me lembrar delas.
My own words

I yearn so much for
my own words...
I hear only echoes inside my own skull I need paper to give them life.
To live...is what the words that are restless in the depth of my unconscious want.
Liberty. To play, to run, to fly (or simply to speak).
They are butterflies, dragonflies, caged birds
wishing liberty, dreaming of new possibilities – that peek from the bottom of my heart through the cracks that sometimes open – in the rare moments in which I find myself with enough serenity to remember them.
Al Bosque en invierno
Ina Porras

Déjame caminar sobre tu piel,
    tan nueva,
    tan blanca,
    tan virgen.

Esa piel que la noche de anoche te obsequió.

Déjame caminar en tu silencio traspasarte, escucharte,
    comprenderte.

Regálame el sonido de monedas en tu riachuelo de hielo, y la canción que canta el viento cuando te acaricia y te besa.

Déjame comer los blancos frutos que adornan tus veredas desnudas; piérdele en la blancura de tus colinas, y déjame susurrar una canción de amor…

Para que la lleves a mi amado, lejos, al otro lado del mar.
To the Forest in Winter

Let me walk on your skin, so new,
so white,
so virgin like.

That skin that the night of last night gave you.

Let me walk in your silence, trespass you,
listen to you,
understand you...

Give me the sound of coins in your ice creek, and the song that the wind sings to you when it caresses and kisses you.

Let me eat the white fruits that decorate your naked paths;

get me lost in the whiteness of your hills, and let me whisper you a song of love...

for you to take it to my beloved, far away, at the other side of the sea.
Ivan Teodorovic

Jednom se ziui;
u tom jednom ziuotu couisek treba uzivati i biti scobodan.
You live once;
in that one life you must enjoy and be free.
Amor de Macho

Ina Porras

Amor de macho en celo desafiante, depredador al acecho de la hembra.

Tus ojos son como el mar en un invierno del trópico que no pide, sino toma en el abrazo de sus olas todo destruye

todo lo ahoga

Macho en celo hazme el amor.

-Ahora, aquí, yadesgárrame, hazme gritar lléname las entrañas, insaciable, con sabor a sal,

con sabor a piel
a sangre, a labios, a vientre

Quiero empaparme de ti, mar, océano, río, lluvia, sudor calor

Eres mi macho, yo soy tu hembra lléname de amor urgente, así como el agua inunda la tierra.
Male Love

Love of Male in heat, challenging, predator awaiting for the female...

Your eyes are like the sea of the winter in the tropics, that never asks for anything, only take in the embrace of its waves.

it destroys everything, it sinks everything.

Male in heat
make love to me.

-Now, here, right this moment – tear me apart, make me scream fill me up inside, insatiable, with taste of salt,

with taste of flesh,
of blood, of lips, of belly,

I want to get soak of you, sea, ocean, river, rain sweat, heat

You are my male, I’m your female, fill me up with urgent love, just like the water overflows the earth.
Schlafen

_Katherine Roback_

Der Mond ist aufgegangen Wir schlafen Beide zusammen.
Der Mann der immer lacht Wir träumen die ganze Nacht Weil der Mann immer lacht.
Wir wachen auf – zusammen Die Sonne ist aufgegangen.

Lullaby

The moon has risen even in this weather
We will soon sleep together

The man who always laughs

We dream the whole night Under the sky so bright

Because the man always laughs

Together we will wake up And see, the sun is coming up.
Reflections
Photograph by Klebert Bezerra Feitosa
inintitulado

Lilian P.W. Feitosa

a incontável, inconmensurável intensidade das impressões vai inundando o coração que diz: vai ser aprendiz de um sonho mais vívido que a realidade nua e crua dos dias.
a gente escreve só pra jogar fora cada palavra sentida no fundo do cérebro untitled

the uncountable, incommensurable intensity of impressions is inundating the heart that says: go to be an apprentice of a dream more vivid than the nude and crude reality of days.
we write only to throw away each word felt in the bottom of the brain L’Immortelle
Lylian Y. Bourgois

J’ai suivi tous vos pas et h’ai lu tous vos livres, Senti toutes les fleurs que vous aviez plantées, Visité les endroits don’t vous aviez parlé, Et encore une fois, j’ai relu tous vos livres.

Vos êtres de papier, de sang et de sueur, Plus vrais que nature, plus aimants, plus sincères, Que des êtres vivants que nous appelons “frères”, M’ont conduit, m’ont guidé vers de magnifiques lueurs.

La vérité n’est pas là. Elle n’y tient pas toute Entière. Les livres sont mots (à la limite Des prières), mais ils m’ont montré assez vite La voie dans une vie, un peu triste et amère.

J’ai revu tous vos pas et relu tous vos livres, Planté toutes les fleurs que vous aviez plantées, Ecrit aussi, parfois, de grands texts insensés, Mais j’ai rencontré une êtres don’t je suis ivre.

Le temps a passé, mais aussi cette folie, Il ne me reste plus de vous qu’un ou deux livres
A lire, et la grande joie que vous pourrez suivre Sur mes lèvres, sur mon chemin et dans ma vie.
Immortal

I followed all your steps and I read all you books, Smelt all the flowers which you had planted, Visited all the places you had spoken about,
And once more, I reread all your books.

Your paper and blood and sweat beings,
More real than in reality, more cuddling, more sincere Than real people that we call “brothers”, Lead me, guided me towards magnificent lights.

Truth is not there. It does not stand there Completely. Books are words (maybe Prayers), but they showed me quite quickly
A path in a life that was a little sad and bitter.

I saw again all your steps and I read again all your books, Planted all the flowers that you had planted, Wrote also, sometimes, big and pompous texts, But I met some one whom I am drunk of.

Time passed, and also that craziness,
I have only left from you one or two books
To read, and the great joy that you will be able to follow On my lips, on my path and in my life.
Ivan Teodorovic

Kroz godine razuma I uspjeha, Godine nikida nisu bice vazne, Razum je pokretac sujeta, i_tijela, Uspjeh donosi srecu zivota!
In the desire for years of sanity and success,
The years are not important.
Sanity is an expression of the motion of the world and body.
Success brings happiness to life!
Strelitzia (Bird of Paradise)

Photograph by Klebert Bezerra Feitosa
No hay mucho que decir. En este momento, igual que antes. Las palabras se evaporan en el aire, como las gotas de lluvia en mayo.

Se ha dicho mucho y sin embargo no ha quedado nada claro, nunca. Se ha dicho todo y nada. Matar para vivir. Eliminar para sobrevivir. Purificarse para ser impuro otra vez. Viajes circulares, con esquinas inesperadas. Caminos alejados, apartados, fríos. Camino sintiendo el hielo bajo mis pies. Días y días que pasan y mi alma sigue fría como la nieve que cubre la colina detrás de mi casa. Como el hielo que traspasa la ventana y se solidifica por dentro. Como el pequeño arroyo que apenas si corre bajo la capa de hielo y nieve que lo cubre. Un arroyo que un día fue verano, lleno de vida. Que un día fue otoño, lleno de color. Y que tal vez un día será primavera otra vez, con agua fría y flores y mosquitos.

Pulgadas de blanca nieve que se acumulan en las carreteras para mezclarse con sal y barro y convertirse en lodo y llenar de herrerumbre los carros. Nieve blanca que se torna cafés y se torna hielo y luego se transforma otra vez en lodo y en vapor espeso que se convierte en lluvia y vuelve a caer, ésta vez más tibio y menos suave. En círculos.

Un vuelo que te aleja. El mismo vuelo que te trajo. Un hola, un adiós. Un lago en medio de dos. Boston ciudad caprichosa llena de vientos fríos y parques con pozas de ranas para patinar. Boston con manos heladas y bolsillos tibios y besos, abrazos y versos a la orilla del mar. Boston de aeropuertos que te traen y te llevan. Y me llevan y me traen. En círculos con esquinas donde no hay espacio y el tiempo pertenece a otro lugar, donde la lluvia cae junto a mi ventana y me canta su húmeda canción en una noche de domingo en otro lugar que no es Boston, que no es contigo.

Tiempo y espacio es relativo.

Amor, distancia y olvido es un hecho.

No te vayas otra vez. No dejes que me vaya de ti. Constrúyeme un círculo con tus brazos y piernas y enlázame, rodéame, secuéstreme y no dejes que me vaya. No dejes que me vaya otra vez. No dejes que me confunda en las esquinas que están tan llenas de basura y polvo y telas de arañas.

Si sólo pudieras escuchar al viento... si sólo pudiera yo hablar su idioma...
Circles and corners

There’s not much to say. At this moment, like before. Words evaporate in the air, just like drops of rain in May.

Much has been already said and nevertheless nothing is clear, it’s never been. Everything and nothing have been said. Kill to survive. Eliminate to endure. To purify and to become impure again. Circular trips, with unexpected corners. Far and away cold roads, days and days go on and my soul is still clenched and cold, like the ice that covers the hill behind my house. Like the ice that trespasses my window and solidifies from within. Just like the tiny creek that barely runs under the layers of ice and snow that cover it. A creek that once was summer, full of life. That one day was fall, full of color. And perhaps one day it’ll become spring again, with cold water, flowers and mosquitos.

An airplane that perhaps will not arrive. Burning tropic that becomes paradise and hell. That becomes life and grave. Water and mud. Flowers and corpses. Corpses under the soil. Dust you are and dust you shall become. To turn into flowers again. Circles. With corners, sometimes painful.

Inches of white snow accumulate on the roads, to get mixed with salt and become mud and rust the cars. White snow that turns brown and turns into ice and turns into mud again, and thick vapor that becomes rain and falls down again, this time warmer and less softly. In circles.

A flight that takes you away. The same flight that brought you here. One hello, one good-bye. One lake in the middle of both. Boston, capricious city full of cold winds and frog ponds to skate in. Boston with frozen hands and warm pockets, and kisses, hugs and poems by the side of the sea. Boston of airports that bring you here and take you away. And take me there and bring me back. In circles with corners where there is no space, and time belongs somewhere else, where the rain falls by my window and sings to me its moistened song a Sunday night, somewhere else that is not Boston, that is not with you.

Time and space is all relative.

Love, distance and forgetfulness are a fact.

Don’t go again. Don’t let me go from you again. Build a circle for me, with your arms and your legs and tie me down, surround me, kidnap me and don’t let me go. Don’t let me go again. Don’t let me get confused in the corners, that are so full of trash, dust and spider webs. If you could only listen to the wind…if I could only know how to speak its language.
Una Dama se congela sobre Ruedas

Alfonso Ferreras

Muñequita de papel dueña de una voz por cuyo filo se hiere las paz de los sentidos.
Te crecieron largas, largas unas alas Ay! pero resultaron de mariposa.
Cuando de pronto te descubriste frente a frente
a la mugre de tu propio espejo mientras mordías el fuego de una prueba tan sólo por un rato frisado, se chamuscó tu vuelo.
Y tu tenue figura que acaso creí una vez sin doblez alguna se desploma con estruendo en cenizas, por fríamente a solas desandar sobre aquel punto en que te encontrabas eternamente en llamas, el resultado de un vano instante de vida irreversiblemente ya en un hilo sin expresión ya con sabor a muerte.
A Lady Freezing Upon Wheels

Little paper doll, your voice is a voice through which the peace of the senses is shattered.
Long, very long winds grew on you, O, but they were only butterfly wings!
Suddenly, seeing yourself face to face with the grime of your own reflection on the mirror, biting the fire of a trial rubbed on just for a moment, your flight was singed.
Your nimble figure, which once,
I suppose, I thought incapable of deceit collapsed into ashes with a crash, alone wandering through the place where forever
you were in flames, the outcome of a vain instant of life, already irreversible turned into a thread without expression, on her lips already the taste of death.

Translated by Giovanni Di Pietro
Identidad

_Maya B. Castellon_

Nací para razones del ritmo Un renacimiento de su sangre, su cara.
Estoy viviendo porque la fuerza de la corazón tenía compasión.
Puedo recordar al color transparente de su piel.
Una visión sin seguridad ni paciencia.
Oigo a los sonidos de su voz.
Veo la profundidad en sus ojos, Como la verdadera vista de la vida.

Identity

I was born of a rhythmic reason.
A rebirth of your blood, your face. I am living because the power of the heart had compassion. I can recall the transparent color of you skin. A vision without security nor patience. I listen to the sounds of your voice. I see the depth in your eyes, Like the true sight of life.
Photograph by Klebert Bezerra Feitosa
Patience

_Yehudit B. Heller_

My grandmother always served tea hot in cups of thin glass, thin with patience, thin with use, and we waited for them to cool.

_We must always wait_, she said, _the way we do, with wine, for Elijah._
_But the eyes must remain open._

And her eyes were blue.

_Translation by Agah Shahid Ali_
End of A Visit

_Yehudit B. Heller_

You are going away again, as you have so many times.
But wait,
have you packed everything?
One never knows what one really needs.
Check again, examine the luggage-So often we leave the necessary behind.

You are packing, I see you-Your suitcases, one on top of the other, just as you pile the fears.
And the compressed thoughts hanging swinging like the swollen purse dangling from your shoulder.

You collect all the parts of yourself.
And then, as is always your way, you leave the door open behind,
You don’t look back.

I tell you Don’t worry.
I myself, as before, will close the door.

_Translation by Agah Shahid Ali_
About Our Contributors

Lylian Bourgois is a graduate student at UMass. He was born in France and writes in his native language.

Maya B. Castellon is an undergraduate student at UMass working on a BFA in printmaking. She writes in her native language, Spanish.

Klebert Bezerra Feitosa is a graduate student of Physics at UMass. He was born in Pernambuco, Brazil and in recent years lived in São Paulo. Photography is one of his ‘hobbies’. He believes photographs are a great way to capture feelings and ideas that are present in peculiar images that pop up every moment around us. Besides, they allow us to see the same world through somebody else’s eyes, moving our own reference frame to a different one, often times unexpected.

Lilian P.W. Feitosa, a graduate student in Comparative Literature at UMass, is from São Paulo, Brazil and writes in her beloved mother tongue, Portuguese. The experience of “living another language” often makes her miss her own so much that she is compelled to write... only if just to get in touch with ‘her own words’. She is also very interested in translation studies and finds it challenging and very enjoyable to translate her poems into English.

Alfonso Ferreras, a Fulbright-Laspau grantee, is a graduate student of Comparative Literature pursuing his masters degree at UMass. He is originally from the Dominican Republic, where he is an elementary and English teacher at Universidad Autonoma de Santo Domingo. He plans to return to his home country when he finishes his degree to become a cultural worker and research Dominican popular and folkloric culture. He has recently finished his first book of poems, Ante Las Sombras de una Ironia, though it remains unpublished.
Yehudit Heller is a poet and educator. She was born in Israel and writes her poems in Hebrew. Her first book of poetry, The Woman in the Purple Coat, was published by Eked Publishing in 1996. Yehudit is active in translating numerous Hebrew works including folk tales, poetry, and socio-political philosophy. She has lived in Amherst since 1984. She has taught numerous courses at the university about Jewish and Israeli poetry and literature. She is currently pursuing her doctorate degree in Comparative Literature.

Ina Porras is a UMass graduate student in Resource Economics. This June she will be presenting her thesis. She is originally from the pacific coast of Costa Rica. Much of her work is influenced by the ocean and nature. The three works presented here, Al bosque en Invierno, Amor de Macho, and Circulos y Esquinas all share a common inspiration.

Katherine Roback is an undergraduate studying Animal Science at UMass. She plans to get a Ph.D. in the field. Her poem is based on a German lullaby. When she was young, her mother would sing her to sleep with German lullabies. Her poem, Lullaby, is dedicated to her mother.

Ivan Teodorovic, an undergraduate at UMass, writes in his native Croatian.