Photographs of African Americans at the Library of Congress

African Americans represented in the Civil War Photograph Collection in the Prints and Photographs Reading Room fall into several categories, including soldiers, civilians attached to the military, and contraband and refugees. Although images of African American soldiers are in high demand, they are not well represented here. Each image is listed by group ("LOT") number, and a brief description and the identification numbers needed for reproduction requests are provided. For record-keeping purposes, both glass and film negative numbers are cited. However, in ordering reproductions, the film negative number must be used, if one exists. Images with negative numbers beginning "LC-B815..." are stereographic images.

The list includes citations to three major works, which are noted as LC staff encounter reproductions of images in them. The works are:
