This exhibition highlights community planning and design initiatives that promote cultural expression and community visions in Holyoke. Over the last two years, Professor Joseph Krupczynski and his students from the Architecture + Design program at the University of Massachusetts Amherst have developed these community-driven design projects to demonstrate how innovative architecture that is responsive to the community can play a catalytic role in re-vitalizing Holyoke.

Sponsored by: Architecture and Design Program and The Center for Design Engagement at UMass Amherst, The Western Mass. Chapter of the American Institute for Architects, AIA 150/Blueprint for America Grant, UMass/Holyoke Planning Network HUD/COPC Grant.
